

As part of the under graduate curriculum and with the purpose of exposing the students to diverse forest ecosystems and various forest based activities undertaken therein, two study tours, namely, the south India study tour with a duration of 7 to 8 days and all India study tour with a duration of 23 to 25 days are conducted. During the tour, the students are taken to research institutes, universities, sanctuaries, national parks, various types of forest ecosystems and to forest based industries. They are also taken to various other short study trips to different forest areas within the state during the practical sessions of different courses.

---